

Artwork commission for the 40th Leeds International Film Festival

Introduction

As part of the celebrations for the 40th anniversary edition of Leeds International Film Festival, we are commissioning artwork from a Leeds-based artist. The artwork will be used on the front cover of the printed LIFF Guide which is a very popular 100-page free publication circulated throughout Leeds and across Yorkshire. The full artwork and elements of it will also be used in outdoor advertising, on posters, on our website and social media, on screen during the film festival, and in other marketing.

The commission ties in with Leeds commemorating a remarkable milestone in 2026 - 400 years since receiving its first Royal Charter from King Charles I on 13 July 1626. This historic moment marked the beginning of the journey for Leeds towards self-governance and city status.

Brief

We want to commission striking and vibrant artwork that represents a celebration of film, festivals, Leeds, and the history of the city and LIFF, and reflects the diversity and global scope of the LIFF programme. Additionally, you can consider for your idea some of the reasons why our audience loves LIFF, including: escaping in the world of film with us; the communal, friendly and inclusive experience; the huge variety of films that they can't see otherwise; and that it takes place in the autumn/November. Also, the owl is the symbol of Leeds and is associated with LIFF.
