

Us: Jordan Peele follows Get Out with terrifying doppelganger horror

When a family take a holiday getaway to their beach hut, things quickly take a turn for the strange. Settling into their seaside retreat, they meet four strangers who have an uncannily similar resemblance to themselves. Not only do these demonic figures look like the Wilson family... they also think like them too.

Jordan Peele's follow up to his acclaimed directorial debut Get Out combines razor sharp social commentary with the intensity of classic horror. Lupita Nyong'o (The Jungle Book) and Winston Duke (Black Panther) star, and there's a suitably chilling musical score by Michael Abels. Tickets | Trailer
